For immediate release Monday, December 5, 2011

Mayor Coleman Appoints Greg Davies as Director of Public Utilities

Greg Davies, deputy chief of staff to Mayor Michael B. Coleman, was named the new director of the Department of Public Utilities, effective December 19. Davies will replace Tatyana Arsh, who announced last week she would be stepping down after 15 years of service to the department. Davies served six years as a key member of the Public Utilities leadership team. As deputy chief, he has served as Mayor Coleman's liaison to the department for the past four years.

"Along with Director Arsh, Greg has been a top adviser to me on issues related to Public Utilities and has helped make that department as effective and efficient as it is today," Mayor Coleman said. "I am confident that Greg's knowledge and leadership skills will make Columbus Public Utilities even more successful in the years to come."

Davies first joined Public Utilities in 1999 and served as executive assistant to the director. Davies has also served in the Columbus Development Department as deputy director. In this capacity he was responsible for the management of neighborhood services, building and zoning services and internal operations.

"I look forward to returning to the Department of Public Utilities to provide the excellent service our residents have become accustomed to under the leadership of Mayor Coleman and Director Arsh," Davies said. "Public Utilities is full of talented and dedicated employees, and I am confident the department will continue to perform at a high level."
